Welcome to our place.

Welcome to the first newsletter of 2021. Another year has gone, and one that I think we would all rather forget. 2020 will go down as the year the world shutdown with Covid-19 and the crazy stuff that followed. We live in a different world now and we will all feel ongoing effects of this Pandemic for years to come.

As the world's economies struggle to cope with high death rates, closed borders and shutdowns, New Zealand has been ahead of the game in many ways, and has come through pretty well. This is not to say we are by any means clear of future upheavals to our way of life, but at least being small, isolated by oceans and onboard with Governments restriction, we have a greater chance of normality than others.

The heat has arrived across the country and temperatures are hitting all time new highs. Wanganui is mild in comparison so great for us.

With heat and dry conditions comes stress on water systems. We have the new Water Flow indicator from Gallagher on special, which is an awesome way of monitoring unwelcome water leaks. Placed inline, you can see at a glance any water flow, and decide if that is normal or not. The deal is buy 4 and get one FREE.

I hope everyone had an awesome Christmas and New Year and we at Farm Supplies are ready to help you with all your needs this year. Hopefully 2021 will be kinder for all of us.

Enjoy the last month of summer, don't get burnt and take the time to relax and have a few well earned barbecues.

Engineering funnies

you.

Two antennas got married – the wedding was lousy, but the reception was outstanding.

Two atoms are walking down the street, and one says to the other, "Wait, wait, we have to go back. I've lost an electron somewhere."

The second atom says, "Really? Are you sure?"

To which the first atom replies, "Yes. I'm positive."

Q: What to give your favourite electrical engineer for his birthday?

A: Shorts.

Q: What did the electrical engineer say when he got shocked?

A: That hertz.

A pessimist looks at a glass of water and states it is half empty, an optimist looks at the same glass and states it is half full, but an engineer sees it and states the glass is twice as tall as it should be.

Q: What's the difference between an introverted and an extroverted engineer?

A: An introverted engineer looks at his shoes when he's talking to you, an extroverted engineer looks at your shoes when he's talking to

Looking for a boyfriend in engineering: the odds are good, but the goods are odd.

Reaching the end of a job interview, the Human Resources Manager asked the young engineer fresh out of university, "And what starting salary were you looking for?"

The engineer said, "In the neighbourhood of $100,000 a year, depending on the benefit's package."

The HR Manager said, "Well, what would you say to a package of $200,000 a year, 5 weeks vacation, 14 paid holidays, full medical and dental coverage, company matching retirement fund to 50% of salary, and a company
